The All-Students Club met last night in the Student Union to discuss the problems of the club. The club is a new organization which was formed last year to represent the students of the University of Tennessee at Martin. The club has been successful in many ways, but it has also encountered many problems. The club members discussed these problems and decided on a plan of action to solve them.

CHRISTMAS

With the sound of Christmas carols filling the air, and bright bits of tinsel and shining lights on the tree, all hearts and minds turn to that most glorious season of the year . . . Christmas.

With Christmas comes bright gifts, warm greetings, the strengthening of new friendships, and the renewal of old ones . . . the thoughts of peace on earth, good will toward men.

Thoughts of that first Christmas many years ago bring people closer to the true meaning of this season which many of us tend to forget during the remainder of the year. A picture of a tiny child in a manger with a bright star shining all over the world . . . a star which reached out, and still reaches out, to touch the dark corners of a confused world.

The sound of a child laughing merrily as he empties his first Christmas stocking, the family gathered around the Christmas tree, friends and relatives stopping by to say, "Merry Christmas" . . . all these things and others that have a special meaning for each of us—this is Christmas.

This holiday season let's stop to think of what the true meaning of Christmas is and what we can make it mean to others . . . the millions of people all over the world who know no Christmas, and the people who are as close as our own home town who will know no joyous holiday season. Christmas doesn't have to be shown in terms of elaborate gifts or expensive treats, but rather, in the terms of the one word which truly means Christmas . . . love. Without love, there would have been no Christmas or will be no Christmas this year or in the years to come.

The gift may be small, the tree may be tiny, but if the hearts of all are big, and full of love, yours will truly be a Merry Christmas.

We sincerely hope it is . . . Merry Christmas!

SMILE WEEK

Have you noticed all those big smiles and those warm hellos these past few days? If you haven't, it's because you haven't been looking . . . this is Smile Hello Week!!

At the ASC meeting last week, several students remarked that UTMB is not living up to its reputation as being one of the friendliest campuses anywhere and something should be done about it. So we're in the midst of a big smile campaign that will be a big asset to the campus if everyone pitches right in and smiles.

Have you noticed the time? The week before finals . . . if there is ever a time when morale needs boosting, this is it. We'll all admit we need something right now and maybe smiles will do the trick. The least we can do is try, so everybody SMILE, HELLO!!!!

"STUDENTS' HOME AWAY FROM HOME"

COLLEGE PROFESSORS

By DAVID SISK

Teachers are witty, moody, emotional, almost normal, usually sane people. But college professors are entirely different. They are the clan of slave drivers who join forces together to abuse the modest "teacher" into one that is spoken in fits of anger, confusion, lamentation and torment.

It is not always a person's own fault that he has to teach school. After all, someone has to take a back seat. Too, it is sometimes destiny for a person to teach. For instance, as soon as a baby is old enough to walk, he shows signs of being a college professor. A few of these signs are continuous nights of no sleep, a frequent beating of the head against a wall, floor, or other immovable objects, an undying urge to issue punishment and misery, and an instinctive desire to remove all the hair from his head when pangs of frustration set in.

Why a person wants to be a college professor is unknown as far as actual facts are concerned, but the usual assumption is that the "fugitive-to-be" just doesn't know any better.

The average professor feels pretty good the first year or two of teaching, but after four or five years of sinking deeper and deeper, getting less cooperation and seemingly less recognition, the sweet, ever-loving smiles disappear. By this time, the professor has dropped the extrovert rating and has become a hard-boiled introvert. School becomes merely a routine of which home work, theme writing, etc., plays a major role. An invisible, unbreakable shell surrounds the professor, and our patient begins the "brooding period." This usually lasts until the ninth or tenth year when he reaches the end of the rope. He knows he is beaten, and this mixes with other problems such as income tax, forebodings of old age, and other things to produce the college professor of today. If the professor happens to be married, a divorce or separation usually occurs during this time. Any professor who lasts more than fifteen years has suffered enough pain, embarrassment, contradictions, and hardships to have deservedly earned a purple heart for bravery.

Professors are usually, but not always, wrong. There is that one-in-a-hundred chance that he may be right. If it were not for that small percentage, professors would be laughed at, slurred, contradicted more strongly, and humiliated by millions of intelligent students, who are trying to get along in this world and becoming increasingly tired of being pushed around.

It is a strongly pursued theory of mine that all professors are either petty hoodlums or part-time embezzlers. How else can they own a nice home with good furnishings, drive a fancy car, wear first-rate clothes, all on the salary they are paid?

Actually professors only assign home work because they feel inferior, or because during their school days, they couldn't keep up their grades and are trying to "get even." When they assign a long, strenuous amount of home work, you can see a fiendish smile on their faces and a beady look in their eyes. They feel now they are at peace with the world.

If you will observe professors closely, you will see I am quite truthful in my statements. After almost 15 long years of observing teachers on all levels, I feel I am in a position to give you a weekly schedule of the usual behavior of an average teacher. This may vary a little from week to week, but I am attempting such a chore to warn unsuspecting persons of possible hazards when entering the teaching profession.

Monday: This is the professor's best day. He has had a two day rest, and just seeing how miserable the student is gives him a lift for the day. He may be a little more lenient in the usual amount of home work.

Tuesday: The effects of Monday haven't hit him squarely, and he is feeling only a mild headache. He still hasn't reached his peak in assigning home work, but he is sure to give a generous amount.

Wednesday: This is the day! The full impact of the previous two days has hit him, and he realizes the horror of the two yet to come. He snaps at his students, and it is impossible to try to reason with him. His dose of assignments is overgenerous and outrageous.

Thursday: The pangs of frustration are beginning to set in, and this is the day for the sick headache. He is, however, more sociable than he was the day before and doesn't assign quite as much as he did on Wednesday.

Friday: The teacher is just short of a breakdown. He is aware of this fact and tries to control temper. As the day progresses, tempers fly. When this happens, the best thing to do is roll over and play dead. You may try to force yourself to agree with him once as a morale booster, if you don't mind the wrath the older students bestow upon you.

The week finally ends, and the professor is so worn out he just can't enjoy the two days of necessary freedom so generously allowed by the Board of Education.

All these things I have written apply only to ordinary professors—but not my professors. My professors are intelligent, generous, understanding bodies who are indispensable to a bunch of poor, struggling mortals such as I.

What's Your Answer, Please?

By ANN COX

QUESTION: What do you want for Christmas?

ANSWERS:
Sherry Smith: A diamond ring and Charles Cunningham.
Janice Adams: An extended vacation.

Nancy Greene: A Cadillac, a pair of shoestrings, and a new teddy bear.

Charles Carr: Good enough grades to transfer to pharmacy school and a lot of good times.

Sue Carol: A new elephant, the nose on name is broken; also I want my plowboy.

Larry Smith: "Me. I ain't telling."

Patty Jo Alexander: A bicycle to ride to class on.

James Webb: A "souped-up" ground slide. I'm tired of walking.

Duane Webb: Whiskey, (milk) and plenty of women.

Jimmy Kerr: Anything will be all right. (Except milk.)

Nancy Lawson: A French poodle named "Perch."

Wayne Shrader: A good grade in Botany.

Nancy Jo Travis: I want to get rid of Lawson (Nancy), she is driving me crazy up here on the third floor.

James Vaughn: "Peace and Solitude."

Glenda Templeton and Judy Johnson: "A telephone extension to the 'A' dorm."

Ann Essery: A passing grade in Economics and Zoo.

Doris Cherry: A new wardrobe of clothes.

Wayne Richmond: A two week vacation with . . .

Doris Reedy: A big package of surprises.

Mary Kathryn Carrington: Plenty of rest.

Glenda Pritchett: Elvis' new album with "Young and Beautiful" in it.

Doris Sloan: A lot of ungrateful sugar, tinted with a rose color.

Wayne Gassaway: A quart of tomato juice.

Angie Anderson: A bed that will be still when I get in it Christmas Eve night.

Johnnie Alexander: "Someone who is 6'5" with beautiful blue eyes."

Jane Ann Gresson: I want "little pretty one."

Women's Intramurals

By HARRIETTE LAVENUE

Red team with Johnnie Alexander as captain took the title as volleyball champs of 1957. Red team went from defeat in the first round to win the championship. The team consisted of such outstanding players as Shirley Grant, Peggy Eubanks, Carolyn McCorkle, Norma Schwan, Phyllis Ford, Peggy Davis, Ruth Caldwell, Hula Jones and Betty Huffman.

White team led by Captain Norma Robertson was the runner-up. Some of White team's outstanding players were Kay Atkins, Martha Hickman, Nancy Holt, Peggy Peoples, Carolyn Taylor and Mary Ida Warren.

All the teams were well represented in this tournament and keen competition has resulted.

A fighting finish is the prediction for the table tennis tournament. The deadline for the completion of the tournament is Thursday, December 12. Our last year's champ, Doris Hettinger, is still winning, but other outstanding players who are going to give her some good competition are Kay Oden, Becky Cashon and Johnnie Alexander (1956 runner-up). The semi-finals should bring some outstanding playing from these girls.

Signing up for our first mixed intramural event of the year has just been completed. Shuffleboard is an event that takes a man and woman from the same color team to make an entry. These mixed events prove to be quite a lot of fun for all partners concerned. Check the men's bulletin board and find your opponent and let's at least get started on this tournament before the quarter ends.

Hey, have you noticed the big intramural scoreboard in the lobby of the gym? Well, take a look—you will find the combined (both men and women) team totals there. Keep an eye on that board. Here are the standings as of December 6, 1957:

Brown	160 points
Green	153 points
Red	126 points
White	124 points
Orange	109 points
Blue	96 points
Black	94 points
Yellow	80 points

What Is A Veteran?

Between the mystery of adolescence and dignity of a man, we find a very delightful character called a veteran. Veterans come in assorted sizes, weights and complexions, but all veterans have the same creed. The phrase of our creed that appeals to me for its depth and simplicity is that we believe that "earth's great treasure lies in human personality."

Veterans are found everywhere—in the office, in church, in government, and sometimes at schools such as the University of Tennessee. Wives love them, little children enjoy them, teachers tolerate them, girls ignore them, and heaven protects them.

A veteran is a composite. He has the appetite of a horse, the liquid consumption of a thirsty cow, the energy of a pocket-sized hydrogen bomb, the curiosity of a woman, and the imagination of a child. When he works in the laboratory, he discovers that he has five thumbs on both hands.

A veteran likes people, hunting, fishing, golf, conventions—a son or a daughter—the fireplace or home itself. However, he is not much for working around the house, attending the opera, or making long-winded speeches.

Nobody else is so late to classes; nobody else can cram into one night four months of work, four cups of coffee, three hours of bull session, and yet assume the responsibility of a student.

A veteran is a magical creature. His wife can lock him out of her house, but she cannot lock him out of her heart. His girl can stop him from seeing her, but she cannot forget him. So let's face it, he is just a hard working, religious, tolerant, unselfish, fun-loving, dynamic, mistake-making ball of fire. But beyond this, his highest conception of human personality is his willingness to dedicate his energies and resources to help and give of himself to his family, job, school, government and his God.

True it is that "earth's greatest treasure lies in human personality." Because when he comes in at night, with only the shattered pieces of his hopes and dreams, they mend completely as soon as his wife or girl says, "Speak up, veteran, tell me all about it," or as soon as one of his sons says, "Hi, Dad!"

Fashions and Fads

By ELEANOR GRESHAM

One of the biggest events of the quarter is the Christmas Dance, which took place in all its splendor at the Strata Club Saturday night, December 7. It seems the Christmas Spirit really comes in when this dance is staged and all those who worked so hard to create the atmosphere deserve so much praise. It's an especially big time in the women's dorm, not only for upperclassmen, but also for the freshmen, for it's their first big social.

And big is one way of describing Mary Ann Haguewood's lovely formal. Worn over a hoop, it is white net over white taffeta and features a circular skirt with 11 rows of ruffles running diagonally to the floor. The bodice of this "White Christmas" affair is white satin, and the waistline is elongated tapering to a point in the front. Net is also featured on the bodice with tucks across the bustline, net shoulder "puffs" and two floating panels reaching the length of the dress. Real dreamy!

Margaret Colville also selected white net with taffeta and satin of white for her floor-length formal, but a different design and a touch of burgundy velvet as red as the reddest of Christmas berries or Santa Claus suits create an entirely different effect. The gathered skirt, worn over a hoop, is topped with a tucked white satin cummerbund and a ruffled strapless bodice. The burgundy velvet? Margaret ties a pretty sash around her waist to present the favorite color combination of Christmas 1957—red and white. Very fashionable is an apt description.

Red, but not really red, is Pat Flowers' selection of raspberry net for her formal. Pat has certainly put her heart into the Christmas Spirit, for her gathered skirt over taffeta is covered with hearts made of the fullest of ruffles; the theme is carried farther on the bodice, which has tiny full ruffles across the top and an empire effect with a tiny heart in center front. Pat also gets a new "monogram" idea, so to speak, for instead of a monogram, she attached blue "Flowers" (!) to each of the hearts on her strapless "short" formal.

Another red, but not really red, selection is that of Janice Whitson for her strapless full-length gown of iridescent shrimp taffeta. The fitted bodice with numerous tucks at the bustline has the popular elongated waistline with "V" in center front. The full gathered skirt is draped to the right side with gathers of co-ordinating nets giving the skirt a curved informal balance. Janice is probably singing "Here Comes Santa Claus" instead of "Shrimp Boats Are A' Coming," but in either case shrimp is a mighty flattering color for her.

Although red in various tints and shades is fashion's favorite color this fall and winter, and especially for Christmas, there is also another color associated with Christmas. You guessed it—green! And that's just what Carol Caldwell made her dress of—mint green net and taffeta. The rounded neckline is emphasized with the fullest of ruffles, and there is heavy cording where the fitted bodice meets the ever so full gathered skirt. The skirt is composed of three tiers, each gathered to the other. Carol said that the width around the bottom is thirty-two yards, but there is no way of estimating the yardage in the two ruffles which are featured also on the skirt. It's a cinch Carol has lots of room for lots of fancy dancing during the Christmas holidays or any time.

ELEANOR GRESHAM

Selecting green, this time in lime, is Marjorie Vowell, who combines lime taffeta with white lace for a pert strapless ballerina length formal. The shirred bodice tops off a full skirt featuring a dozen ruffles of lace. To accent the taffeta peeping through is a shirred cummerbund of lime nylon chiffon. It would be easy to get the Christmas Spirit in such a feminine and pretty affair.

Lace is always popular, whether it tops lime or what, and it is also the choice of Beverly Pouncey. Beverly's short formal of black lace over two layers of black net, a layer of pink net ruffles, and then pink taffeta is something any gal would love to find under her tree or even in her closet on Christmas morning. The gored circular skirt and fitted bodice are tied together by a pink taffeta cummerbund evolving into a bow and long streamers in the back, which also accent the pink peeping out around the top of the bodice. If Santa is as generous to Beverly as her formal is with fabric, she has it made.

Of course, any gal, freshman or upperclassman, would love to have a pretty formal for Christmas, even though the Christmas Dance of 1957 is but a memory. Remember, there are several formal dances in store during the coming year! Whether you're one of the lucky ones, who does get a formal or not, here's hoping you get lots of the latest Fashions and Fads for Christmas!

"DOIN'S BREWIN"

(CHRISTMAS CAPERS)

By BARBARA BROOKS

By this time, everybody has that supersonic stocking out all ready to hang for that great night when that cool gent known as Captain Sandy Claws will whisk by in Sputnik III along with the reindeer space patrol and drop lots of goodies for all the boys and girls who have worn a halo this year! Wonder if any of us will make it? By now, I'm sure you've heard that Sandy had to get a rocket this year! With all those satellites and missiles up there, his old sleigh didn't stand a chance. Never let it be said that Sandy Claws is behind the times!

On campus, the first signs of the old gent are beginning to appear. The girls' dorm has been turned into one big TOYLAND and 160 of Sandy's helpers have gotten into the full swing of things. Christmas trees ranging from ones 6 inches tall to the big one in the living room have started all the inmates to singing "Sandy Claws Is Coming to Town." He is expected to put in an appearance tonight if he can arrange to come before 10:15.

Saturday night, December 7, the Strata Club was the scene of the big Christmas Dance put on by the Sophomore Class. The sight of everybody having so much fun, those gorgeous decorations, and such good-looking guys and gals must have made old Sandy smile.

Speaking of smiles, this is Smile Hello Week at UTMB. A good time for it, too, I might add. With all those term papers, and those glorious finals approaching, a smile and a hello might be just what we need. A good Christmas present, too, would be a great big smile and a warm hello for all of those people we have forgotten this year!

Christmas came early for one UTMB co-ed, Beth Goff, when she got the star of Christmas right on that third finger, left hand, last Tuesday night! Sandy, in the person of Jimmy Townsend, really knows how to pick those presents. Congratulations!

The other night several girls were elaborating on what they hoped to find in their Christmas stocking December 25, and one co-ed spoke up and said, "I'm being really unselfish this year. . . I'm not asking Sandy to bring me anything, but I'm just asking him to bring my Mother a son-in-law!" How sacrificing can one get?

The true meaning of Christmas was presented by the UTMB chorus Sunday afternoon with their presentation of the Messiah. A special thanks should go to the chorus members, Miss Fulton, and Mrs. J. Robert Swain, guest soloist, for making this event possible for us.

Someone else has been working to bring Christmas to UTMB. And that person is Mrs. Cora Campbell, who has transformed the cafeteria into a sparkling "Christmasland." We've just about decided that Mrs. Campbell is Sandy's No. 1 helper!

Here's hoping everybody has a "Cool Yule and a Frantic First." Merry Christmas!

We hear that the boys in Reed Hall were surprised to see two upperclassmen move into their dormitory to replace Mrs. Cora Campbell, their former dorm mother. The new "dorm mothers," Ray Bryant and Nelson Edwards, have been in their new home for quite a while but have only recently gotten accustomed to the "QUIETNESS" which envelopes the dormitory after eight in the evening.

The forty-nine boys in Reed Hall held their Christmas party Monday night, December 9. Since final exams are near, the party was a brief one and took place immediately following the basketball game.

Every evening at 9:30 a devotional is held in the lounge with everyone, including outsiders, invited to attend. Following the devotional dorm members sing their theme song, "I've Got a Home in the Delta Club." The Delta Club membership includes everyone who lives in Reed Hall.

The boys in Freeman Hall have also been active. They have been working up plans for a Christmas banquet for members only. Several Freeman Hallers have been doing a great deal of duck hunting. Glen Fowler, Clyde Williams, Geron Brown, and Gill Hutcherson are the most talkative in relating their exploits in the blinds and bottoms.

New Records For Cafeteria

By RAYMOND BRYANT

After several years of listening to outdated records at the UTMB cafeteria, the "Slopslingers" decided that it was time for a change.

Being unable to obtain records to play there, they decided to put out a jar and ask the students eating to help buy new records. This proved to be a very excellent plan for during the first day over $5.00 was collected. When enough funds were collected the organization began to purchase popular records.

Thus far the "Slopslingers" have purchased the "Elvis" record, You Send Me, Around the World, Where the Rio de Rosa Flows, and one long playing record that contains twelve songs.

At the present time, they are trying to collect more money for the purchase of some good Christmas records.

Everyone has expressed delight in having new records to listen to and is contributing accordingly.

YF&H Winter Quarter Officers Are Named

By RAYMOND BRYANT
The Young Farmers and Homemakers Club of UTMB met recently and elected the officers to serve during the winter quarter.

Chosen to lead the club as president was Charles Pyron of Adamsville. Wayne Redmond, Mark Farrar, Barry Simmons, and Robert Patrick were elected to serve with him as vice-president, secretary and treasurer, reporter and recreation chairman respectively.

The club has also taken as one of its projects the sending of money to CARE for packages to be sent overseas. This was also one of the club's projects last year.

The YF&H has grown tremendously this year over the last years and has now acquired a fairly large membership. But the club is still hoping to enlarge. The only requirements for membership are for one to be interested in the working and playing with young people and the paying of club dues. There will be a representative of the club in the line at winter quarter registration and we encourage anyone interested to be sure and join.

Vols' Great Start Helps Beat Athens

By MAURICE FIELDS

In a great display of teamwork the Vols held Athens College scoreless for the opening 4 minutes and 1 second. During this time they built up a 13 point lead. With this advantage the Vols never looked back as they increased it to 15 points by the half and 21 points by the end of the game.

Edward Jones led the scoring attack with 20 points, but was closely followed by Bill Rucker with 17 points. Chittam scored 11 points to be high point man for Athens.

Every man on the Vol bench saw action. James Wilhaucks turned in 10 points in a fine relief effort at forward.

The Vols were particularly sharp on defense. The front men stole several Athens passes and the big men controlled the backboards.

The game ended with Karl Guenther's long push shot in the air. It banked in for the final two points.

The Vols committed 21 fouls, and only hit 7 of 19 free throws awarded them. They connected on 36 field goals.

Athens College was charged with 18 fouls and hit 20 out of 29 free throws for an average of 68%. They fell short on the field goals with only 17.

WESLEY FOUNDATION MEMBERS PLAN TRIP TO CONFERENCE

Highlighting the Christmas vacation for eight Methodist students will be a six-day conference at Lawrence, Kansas. Mary Kathryn Carrington, Janice Whitson, Eleanor Gresham, Mary Elizabeth Grabel, Melvin Humphreys, Raymond Bryant, Jimmy Stanford, and Larry Smith along with the Wesley Foundation Director, Bro. Brady Whitehead, Jr., and Mrs. Whitehead, will attend the Sixth Quadrennial Conference of the Methodist Student Movement December 27-January 1.

Since the conference is held only once every four years, the Methodist Church goes "all out" to make it as meaningful and challenging as possible for her college students. The church had three books published especially for use in the meetings which the UTMB group have been studying. Speakers for the occasion include Norman Cousins, editor of "Saturday Review"; Harold Bosley, outstanding Methodist minister; Fred George Buttrick, professor at Harvard; and Harold DeWolf of Boston School of Theology.

An oratorio on the life of John Wesley will be sung by a 300-voice choir accompanied by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. Other activities will include Bible study, worship services, drama, art displays, and recreation.

I can't wait until Christmas. These books are getting me down.

Finally the big day arrives . . . CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS!

BSU Members Have Thanksgiving Treat

The Baptist Student Union held a Thanksgiving Breakfast Wednesday morning, November 27. This breakfast was given in honor of the international student on our campus, John Dalrymple, who is from Canada.

The students gathered in the sanctuary of the Central Baptist Church at 6 a.m. An inspirational devotional was presented by Mrs. Dottie Scates and Mrs. Barbara Shannon with the assistance of Peggy Davis, Shirley Grant, Sonny Daniel, and Jimmy Stanford. After the devotional, breakfast was served in the church dining room.

Other special guests at the breakfast included some of the missionaries who had spoken at Noonday Devotionals during the previous week.

For the first time since there has been a Baptist Student Union on the campus of UTMB, the group has a Freshman Council. The officers are as follows: President, Charles Grooms; Vice-President, Elizabeth Barrow, Enlistment Director, Mary Ann Lisenbee; Social Chairman, Lou Ann Anderson, Co-Devotional Directors, Sonny Daniel and Carolyn Prince; Secretary, Glenda Templeton; Co-Chairmen of Missions and Extensions, Pat Bynum and Bill Laney; Editors of THREE LINKS, Shirley Baker and Stanley Johnson; Stewardship Chairman, Buddy Carl; Music Chairman, Peggy Davis; Sunday School Representatives, Hollis Suiter and Beverly Pouncy; Training Union Representatives, Raymond Jackson and Billy Clendenin; Y.W.A. Representative, Margaret Hamer; Commuters' Representative, June Scates; Faculty Advisors, Mrs. Carlys Scates, Mrs. Jack Shannon, Mrs. Bob Wadley.

These officers were installed on November 22 at the BSU Meeting-of-the-Month. After the installation, Miss Pitts Hughes, assistant to the Student Department in Nashville, gave a challenging devotional.

The Students of UTMB who go to the local churches here in Martin were honored December 8. The First Baptist Church People had a Christmas Breakfast for the BSU under the sponsorship of the Sunday School. That night at 8 p.m. Central Baptist gave a Christmas Party for all its UTMB students.

For the remainder of the quarter, the main emphasis of BSU will be on the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering. This offering goes to foreign missions and is used to send missionaries and doctors and to build churches, schools and hospitals of the foreign mission fields.

Plans are being made for a mid-year retreat. This will be held after the beginning of Winter Quarter. The tentative date is January 11-12.

LIBERAL ARTS CLUB HAS REGULAR MEET

The Liberal Arts Club held its regular monthly meeting December 2 with most members present.

The program featured a panel discussion on dentistry and nursing. Participating in the discussion were Dr. Ted Clement, Mrs. John Hamilton, R.N., Jean Fones, and Jimmy Blankenship.

A brief business session was held and Annual pictures were taken. Following the serving of refreshments, the meeting adjourned.

T-Club Initiates New Members

By CHARLES YOUNGERMAN

On Monday night, November 25, in the gym, the members of the T-Club were very busy people. The occasion was the initiation of new members. You have probably noticed the new male members by their distinctive haircuts. The young ladies wore attractive orange T's on their forehead.

Those being initiated were: Ruthie Dodson, Judy Johnson, Hulan Brooks, Joyce Bizzelle, Marjorie Vowell, Carolyn McCorkle, Harriette Lavenue, Johnny Bruff, Dan Shanklin, Mark Farrar, Joe Anderson, Charles Magee, Stan Patterson, Marco Monacchio, Benny Green, Louis Burgess, Fred Clark, Gene Hipp, William Bryan, Bill Deverill, Emmett Mooror, Jr., Ralph Lowe, Ray Lynch, Leonard Riggins, Leo Mayo and Stan Hawkins. This is the largest group ever initiated into the T-Club.

Charles Youngerman, president of the T-Club, acted as master of ceremonies and conducted the meeting smoothly and efficiently. He was helped by all of the old members. During the initiation, a few tasty dishes were served to those being initiated. Everyone initiated took everything "dished out" with no hard feelings. We are happy to welcome this fine group as members of the T-Club.

In conclusion refreshments were served in the lobby of the gym. Everyone then went his separate way!

Rifle Team Fires In Postal Match

Thursday, December 5, the ROTC Rifle team fired in the 37th Annual William Randolph Hearst Army ROTC Match. This is a nation-wide Small-bore Rifle Postal Match. The scores in this match can not as yet be announced, but they were very high and showed a very substantial gain over last year's scores. All indications are that the team will make a very good showing in the national standings.

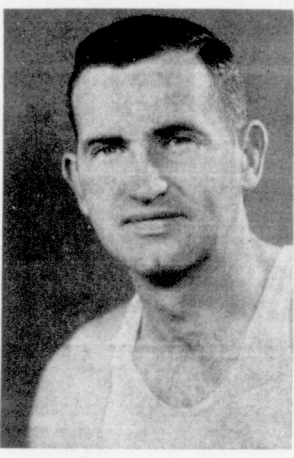

The ten Cadets who fired in the match were: Cadet Cpl. Shanklin, Cadet Lt. Lewis; Cadet M/Sgt. Culver; Cadet Sgt. Freeman; Cadet Sgt. Freeman, Cadet Cpl. Tinney, Cadet Pvt. Whitehead, Cadet Pvt. Arnold, Cadet Pvt. Henson, Cadet Pvt. Tull, and Cadet Pvt. Ridley.

The boss returned in a good humor from lunch and called the whole staff in to listen to a couple of jokes he had picked up. Everybody but one girl laughed uproariously. "What's the matter?" grumbled the boss. "Haven't you got a sense of humor?" "I don't have to laugh," said the girl. "I'm leaving Friday anyhow."

When the newlyweds boarded the train the embarrassed groom tipped the porter liberally not to disclose that they were just married.

On the way to breakfast next morning the couple was the object of many grins, stares and craning of necks. Furious, the groom upbraided the negro porter. "Nassuh, Boss," George replied, "Ah didn't tell 'em. When dey asked me if you was just married Ah says 'No Suh, dey is just chums'."

UTMB Wins, 69-58, Over Delta State

UTMB downed Delta State December 6 in a hard-fought game. The final score was 69-18.

The Vols drew first blood from Delta State as Buddy Viniard scored on a lay-up. The game stayed close as the first 10 minutes found the score 12 to 11 in the Vols' favor. Delta State tied the score at 22-all, but Bill Rucker broke the tie with a foul shot with only three minutes left in the half. Delta State tied the score a second time at 24 all as Rucker again broke the tie. This time it was two foul shots and there were only two minutes remaining. With one minute left Viniard scored two charity shots to break a 26-all tie. Jones took the last shot of the half and his push shot broke a 28-all tie to give the Vols a 30 to 28 lead.

Viniard started the second half by sinking a lay-up and from that point the Vols' lead began to build. In the middle of the last half the Vols' lead was 11 points. With five minutes left the lead had been increased to 14 points. From this point there was little sweat except for Delta State's press in the closing two minutes. The final score was 69-58.

Brown and Rucker played well as they retrieved more than their share of the rebounds. Hart, Jones and Viniard led the scoring with 18, 16, and 14 points respectively.

Delta's Rogaisis put on a tremendous show with his long two handed push shots. Although he was on the bench most of the time because of fouls, he led his team with 17 points.

UTMB hit 24 of 65 shots from the field for an average of 37%. They hit 21 of 26 free throws for an average of 80%. The Vols were charged with 16 fouls.

Delta State had a field goal average of 30% as they hit 22 of 74 tries. Their free throw average was only fair compared to the Vols as they hit 12 of 20 for an average of 60%. They committed 18 fouls.

Vols Win Opener On Road, 90-77

By MAURICE FIELDS and BOBBY GREGORY

Saturday night, November 23, the UTMB Vols basketball team journeyed to Henderson to encounter a very spirited Freed-Hardeman five and returned with their third victory of the season. The Vols won by the score of 90-77.

Freed-Hardeman jumped into an early lead and maintained it throughout most of the first half. With only a few minutes remaining in the first half, the Vols fought back, tied the score, then went into the lead by two points, 40-38, at half-time.

The first half found Freed-Hardeman frequently pulling ahead by 8 or 10 points several times, only to have UTMB recover and bounce back to within a few points. Due to the fact the Freed-Hardeman team was in high spirits for the game and had an excellent morale boosting audience, they remained on top practically all of the first half, as the Vols were desperately fighting to overcome their lead.

Buddy Viniard entered the game early in the first half and immediately began his assault on the nets. Viniard collected 6 for 6 in the free throw department and hit 9 out of 11 field goals attempted.

Billy Brown teamed up with Viniard and poured in 20 points. He also cleared both boards very well of rebounds. Wilhaucks and Jones also hit in the double figures with 17 and 16 points respectively.

The beginning of the second half saw a determined Vol team continue to gain on the Freed-Hardeman five. The Vols were unable to let up for a single minute as Freed-Hardeman continued to fight for the victory.

High point man for Freed-Hardeman and the ball game was Hill, who dropped in 25 points. Half of Hill's points came on free throws as he hit 13 for 13. Dowdy added 18 points for the losing hometowners.

The Vols attempted 33 foul shots and hit 26 for a percentage of .787. They hit 32 field goals and committed 24 fouls. Freed-Hardeman hit 30 free throws in 35 attempts for a percentage of .857. They collected 23 field goals and committed 22 fouls.

Score at the half was UTMB 40, Freed-Hardeman 38.

UTMB Falls To CBC In Overtime, 84-80

By MAURICE FIELDS

UTMB lost a thriller to CBC of Memphis in a five minute overtime. After trailing 54-48 midway in the 2nd half, the Vols began to close the gap with a sudden burst of baskets by Jones, Hart and King, along with a tip-in by Brown. This string of points put the Vols ahead by five points. CBC's Hagg then began to hit as he sank two field goals and a foul shot to 'help Kuran, their high point man, tie things up at 74 all.

CBC drew first blood in the overtime as Yacullo scored a lay-up. Jones and Hart each hit jump shots to put the Vols ahead, 78-76. Kuran tied the score with a lay-up. Yacullo and Hagg each contributed two points for CBC to again lead, 82 to 78. Jack King connected on a long one to put UTMB within two points, but Yacullo widened the margin with a lay-up. Thus the chances of a Vol win were lost.

From the spectators' view it was a great game, but the pressure on the players and coaches must have been more than great, as the lead changed hands continually. Hart led the Vols with 19 points, followed by King, Jones, and Wilhaucks, each with 14. All of Wilhaucks' points came in the first half in a fine show of offense. Kuran led CBC with 23 followed by Lowery with 22.

UTMB had 36 field goals and hit 8 for 13 foul shots.

Looking at Sports

By BOBBY GREGORY

UTMB Basketball

The UTMB Vols started the 1957-58 basketball season off with a bang, collecting 6 victories against a lone setback to CBC of Memphis. Their victims included Athens College, Freed-Hardeman, the Jackson Independents, Delta State, and two victories over Oakland City College. The prospects for a better record than last year's team seems very probable as that team won only 7 games and were defeated in 13. The Vols have 2 games remaining before the Christmas holidays, and have very high hopes of winning both. They play Paducah Jr. College and Missouri School of Mines. The Vols then will have completed the first half of the 1957-58 season with 9 games remaining on the schedule. Here's to a great season for Coach Burdette and this splendid ball team.

The Bowl Games

New Year's Day is "the day" for football across the nation. This is the day that each team looks forward to as it begins its season's schedule. This is also "the day" for spectators, because they will witness the top teams of the nation as they unveil all their energy in trying to take home a bowl championship.

The bowl games are only a few weeks off and there are as usual, quite a few predictions as to how these games will turn out. This is the time all teams try to be in tip-top shape as the bowl games display the best teams from the conferences across the nation.

On December 28, in Jacksonville, Florida, the University of Tennessee will lock horns with a powerful Texas A&M team in the Gator Bowl. Tennessee, after losing to Auburn in their opening game of the season, came back strongly and defeated the teams of Mississippi State, Maryland, Georgia Tech, and Alabama, before entering the final part of the season. The remaining three games consisted of Ole Miss, Kentucky, and Vanderbilt, the latter two being considered as breathers for the Vols. Ole Miss was the worry in the minds of the Tennesseans, and they proved tough as they swept Tennessee off their feet with an easy victory. The following Saturday, Lou Michaels and the Kentucky Wildcats stomped Tennessee by the surprising score of 20-6. This was quite a surprise to the Tennessee fans and they were also undecided about the Vandy game. However, Tennessee got back on its feet to gain a victory and a bid to the Gator Bowl at the expense of the Commodores.

Texas A&M has a record of 8-2 and will probably take the Gator Bowl championship back to Texas, as Tennessee has been a very weak bowl team in the past. This team from Texas held the top position on the Associated Press weekly poll two weeks ago, only to be upset by Texas and Rice. The loss to Rice kept them from winning the Southwest Conference title and also a chance to play in the Cotton Bowl.

The other major bowls are played on New Year's Day. The big bowl game—the Rose Bowl—is played in Pasadena, California. The Big Ten is sending Ohio State with an 8-1 record to take on a strong Oregon team with a 7-3 record. Ohio State was placed first in the nation on one of the weekly polls last week. Their lone defeat came on opening day to TCU by the score of 18 to 14. After that the Buckeyes were not to be beaten and won a trip to the Rose Bowl. Ohio State with a much better record will probably win over Oregon without too much difficulty.

The Orange Bowl in Miami, Florida, pits Oklahoma against Duke. Oklahoma's lone loss was to Notre Dame in one of the season's most spectacular upsets. This loss knocked Oklahoma from the top perch on the nation's weekly polls. Their final record was 9-1, which gained them fifth place among the nation's top teams. Duke on the other hand had a 6-2-2 record which looks mighty slim beside the record established by Oklahoma, who had run their string of consecutive victories into the 40s. Oklahoma will take Duke with ease unless there is another upset, which would be the upset of the bowls.

Navy and Rice clash in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas New Year's Day. Navy's big victory was a 14-0 win over Army, which put them in the Cotton Bowl. This is the first bowl that Navy has played in since 1954 when they got a bid to the Sugar Bowl after defeating Army 20 to 7. Navy's record was 8-1-1. Rice captured the Southwest Conference title by winning over Texas A&M, their closest rival. They had a 7-3 record which will probably be 7-4 after the New Year's Day classic. This will probably be a close one, but Navy will more than likely emerge victorious over Rice.

In the other major bowl—the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, Louisiana—Texas and Ole Miss will be tangling in what should be the best ball game of all the bowls on January 1. Texas defeated such teams as Arkansas (the only team downing Ole Miss), Rice, and Texas A&M, both of which received invitations to bowl games. Along with their six victories, Texas was tied by Baylor, and lost three games, one of which was to Oklahoma. Ole Miss had a much better record with 8-1-1, losing only to Arkansas and defeating Tennessee, Tulane, Kentucky, LSU, and Vanderbilt. They were tied by Mississippi State in the final game of the season. From the standpoint that Texas defeated the only team able to conquer Ole Miss, Texas has the edge on the University of Mississippi. However, Ole Miss is much stronger and will probably be the winning team after the final horn sounds in New Orleans January 1.

This has been a brief summary of the major bowl games which will be coming up over the holidays, and a prediction as to the outcome of each game. Whom do you pick? Maybe your pickings will be correct.

Vols Sweep Series Against Oakland City

By MAURICE FIELDS

The UTMB Vols outclassed the Oakland City Oaks in the opener of a two night stand during the Turkey week-end. The home team held a slim 2 point margin after 10 minutes of play and an increased margin of 7 points, 39-32, at the half. Their lead didn't dip below 4 points from there to the finishing whistle.

Jones and Viniard each had perfect nights at the free throw line with 5 hits for 5 shots. Both did a fine job of driving as they led many of the fast breaks. Jones was also the high scorer for the Vols with 31 points.

Several passes were stolen by Gregory and King. These were turned into scores on fast breaks. Bill Brown came through on the offensive board, as well as the defensive, as he tipped in several timely rebounds.

Todrank was the hot man for the Oaks as he plunged 34 points into the net. Of his total 28 were scored in the last half. If he shot during the last half it was two points from the time it left his hand. Most of his shots were jump shots from back of the key hole. Mier of the Oaks had a perfect night at the free throw line with 5 for 5.

Gregory and Viniard gave their version of the Grobetrotsers' famous dribbling act in the last two minutes as they tried to elude the Oak ballhawks. They wound up in several odd positions, yet still dribbling, during the last rushes of the Oaks.

UTMB made good 31 field goals. They connected on 21 of 26 free throws for an average of 80% and they were charged with 21 fouls.

Oakland City made 28 field goals and 19 of 27 free throws and committed 18 fouls.

The score at half-time was: UTMB 39, Oakland City 32.

PRESBYTERIAN GROUP PLANS XMAS PARTY

Sunday afternoon, December 15, at 3 o'clock, the Presbyterian Fellowship will have a Christmas party at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Sparks before leaving for the Christmas holidays.

This group, which is steadily growing in number and interest, hopes to join the ranks of the other religious organizations on the campus in helping to foster a Christian atmosphere here.

They welcome anyone to join them each Sunday night at 5:45 at the Martin Cumberland Presbyterian Church for fellowship and worship.

The UTMB Vols took the second game of the two game series from Oakland City to make it a clean sweep. The score at half-time was 37-27. With five minutes left in the game the Oaks had pulled within 6 points of the hustling Vols and the score stood 63-57. UT then spurred to its final lead.

Bill Brown did a terrific job on the offensive board as he tipped in several rebounds at very important times. Both boards were well protected by the Vols' big men. Rebounding was a major factor as most of the plays wound up in shoot-and-run fastbreaks. Most of the time only one or two shots were taken before the ball changed hands. Few of these were hit by Oakland City.

Edward Jones led the Vols with 15 points. He was closely followed by Brown with 13. Viniard and Rucker each had 12 points. This close grouping of points shows the well-balanced attack UT displayed.

As in the previous game with the Oaks, there was fairly smooth sailing for the Vols until the half. At this time Satan again appeared in the form of No. 23, otherwise known as Todrank. Although he was again high scorer for the game, Todrank only collected 17 points in the last half as compared with 28 the night before. His efforts were no match for the strong Vol defenders.

Viniard collected six free throws in as many attempts for a perfect night. Todrank also had a perfect night at the charity line as he connected on five of five attempts.

The Vols made 28 field goals and 14 out of 17 free throws for an average of 81%. They committed 13 fouls which was quite an improvement over the 21 the night before.

The Oaks made 23 field goals and hit 13 of 14 foul shots for a near perfect average of 93%.
